OF THE PAST TWO DECADES IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE NUMBER OF MURDERS AND THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE CONVICTED OF A MURDER

- The biggest difference between the number of murders and the number of people convicted of a murder appeared in 1994, there were 179 unpunished murders. We think it was caused by the dissolution of Czechoslovakia and the lack of the cooperation between the two newly established detective bureaus.

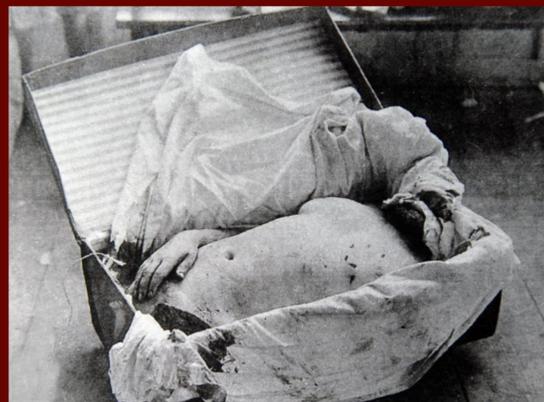

- In comparison with the year 1998, when the number of murders was the highest (313 murders), the number of murders has been constantly decreasing. In 2014, there were only 160 murders.

- This fact goes together with the dwindling difference between the number of murders and the number of people convicted of a murder.

FROM A LONG-TERM PERSPECTIVE, THE CLEAR-UP RATE OF THE CZECH MURDER CRIME IS RISING; THE MURDER INVESTIGATION RESULTS HAVE IMPROVED CONSIDERABLY OVER THE TWO DECADES. THE MOST COMMON MOTIVE FOR A MURDER (OVER 50%) SEEMS TO BE A COMPLICATED PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP WITH A VICTIM.

THE MOST BRUTAL MURDER

On 2nd September 1933 two suitcases with cut up pieces of a prostitute's body (Otýlie Vránská) were found. Train station guards noticed a suitcase with legs and head in a compartment of a train in Bratislava. The other suitcase with a torso and arms showed up in Košice. The detectives assumed that she had been hit into head twice and her heart had been stabbed seven times. The culprit had never been discovered. This murder belongs to one of the most famous unsolved murders of the Czech crime history.
